1. Recently there has been steady improvement in Bulgarian-Yugoslav relations, largely as a result of Bulgarian efforts. Yugoslav officials do not appear to be making much of an effort in this regard.
2. Since the Belgrade Conference, Bulgarian surveillance of Yugoslav official personnel in Sofia has gradually decreased. Previously there were always two cars in front of the Yugoslav Embassy, presumably for surveillance purposes, but these cars are no longer there.
3. In addition, the Bulgarians are clearing the mine fields along the Bulgarian-Yugoslav border. [redacted] the clearing of these fields started two years ago [redacted]

Comment: It would seem that the Bulgarians no longer mistrust the Yugoslav Government. The clearance of mine fields would indicate that the Bulgarians do not believe that Yugoslavia will send espionage or subversion agents across the border.
